Risks: Although we do everything we can to prevent injury by teaching program participants specific safety procedures, Earth Path programs involve a certain level of risk. We encourage the children to take supported risks in order to help them learn how to manage risk responsibly. Under the supervision of Earth Path and Just Food staff, volunteers, partners, contractors, and guest instructors, your child may be participating in some or all of the following activities, including but not limited to: use of tools such as knives, saws, hatchets, ropes, hammers, nails and other tools; use and consumption of wild edible plants; fire starting and tending; open fire cooking; climbing, jumping, and running; shelter building; animal tracking; and other wilderness skills. There is the risk of injury that includes, but is not limited to, cuts, scrapes, bruises, falls, insect bites, animal bites, poison ivy, wild parsnip, and allergic reactions, as well as more serious injuries. Just Food Farm and Green’s Creek are open to the public, so risks include encounters with dogs and strangers.

I acknowledge that the activities offered by Earth Path involve inherent risks and the possibility of injury. I understand that injuries sustained during outdoor activities have the potential to be severe. After carefully considering the risks involved, and having confidence that reasonable precautions will be taken for the safety of my child/ward, I grant permission for my child/ward to participate fully in the activities offered by Earth Path and its representatives.
